MAN HELD IN JAIL FOLLOWING TRIPLE WRECK

John Baker, Park-Blvd, Charged with Driving While Intoxicated

John Baker, Park-blvd, is in County Jail today awaiting arraignment on charges of driving while intoxicated, following a triple collision at 7:30 o'clock last night, five miles south of Marion on the Prospect-rd.

Baker is alleged to be responsible for the accidents, according to county authorities.

Baker, driving a new Pontiac car, according to officers, first crashed headon into the Ford coupe of Dale Barrett, of this city. Before fully recovering from the first collision, he struck the Ford touring car of H. Johnson, residing on the Delaware-rd, and then darted headlong into another mahine. The name of the owner of the third machine is not known.

In the Barrett car, the first victims, were Mr. and Mrs. Barrett and little son, the child was severely cut and the other occupants suffered bruises.

Occupants of the other two cars were not injured. The driver of the third machine did not give his name, leaving the scene of the accident as soon as the damage to his auto was determined.

Baker's new Pontiac was a complete wreck following the collision. Barrett's car was badly damaged, while the other machine suffered smashed fenders, it is reported.

Baker was driving about 20 miles an hour at the time of the accidents, according to Barrett. He was taken into custody by Deputy W. Dexter Hazen immediately following the collisions.

"HAIRY BRUTE" IS PANICKY MONKEY

Cleveland, Oct. 4—Police here today revealed that the "hairy brute" which last night terrorized several homes by rattling doors and by tapping on windows, was only a very much frightened little monkey, which had escaped from an animal show.

A dozen telephone calls sent a squad of policemen to the neighborhood where they prowled over roofs and fire escapes searching for the 'bruit." The affair ended when the tiny animal swung from a wireless aerial to the shoulder of an officer where it cuddled for protection.

CITY OFFICES MAY BE MOVED TO SECOND FLOOR

Building Committee Claims First Floor Needed for Municipal Court

Possibility that all of the city offices now located on the first floor of the Eagles' building at the corner of Center and Orchard-sts may be moved to the second floor to provide ample space for the new Municipal Court and police department after Jan. 1 is the latest development in discussion of preliminary plans for the enlarged municipal headquarters.

Members of the building committee of the City Council have about come to the conclusion, it is stated, that the entire first floor will be needed for the court, police quarters and city prison. That the new court will be an exceptionally busy place is a foregone conclusion and it is thought advisable to take no chances on having it provided with cramped quarters. In connection with the court-room there will be the judge's and clerk's offices, all of which will occupy a large floor space. The city prison will probably be more than doubled in size, and by taking this into consideration, together with the room needed for the police department, it is difficult to figure out a way to provide space on the first floor for any of the other municipal departments.

It is thought that no inconvenience for either officials or the public would result from placing the various offices on the second floor.

EIGHT ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY IN COLLISION

Cars Driven by Marion and Green Camp Men Crash Head-On

Occupants of two cars escaped serious injury at 8 o'clock last night, when a Buick touring car, driven by M. L. Glass, Creston-av, crashed headon into the Ford coupe of W. D. Boxwell, Green Camp, seven miles south of Marion on the Prospect-rd.

Both machines were traveling about 25 miles an hour when the accident occurred. The force of the collision threw the cars into the ditch at the side of the road.

The little daughter of Glass was cut by flying glass from the windshield of the Buick, but her injuries are reported not serious. Four other occupants of the machine were slightly bruised.

Three persons were riding in the Ford coupe at the time of the crash but all escaped with slight cuts and bruises.

Both machines were badly damaged.

New York, Oct. 4—Volleys of shots were exchanged between police and striking window cleaners during a riot at Broadway and 23rd-st today.

No one, however, was hurt.

PREVENTION OF FIRES STRESSED IN CITY SCHOOLS

Marion Opens Special Program in Observance of Safety Week

That Marion residents have reason for paying close attention to Fire Prevention Week, which began Sunday and is being observed throughout the entire country, is emphasized in a statement made today by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, who calls attention to the fact that flames destroyed property valued at $254,000 in this city last year.

Marion's part in the nation's annual reminder of the necessity of using every possible safety measure to remove fire hazards will consist chiefly of special exercises and instructions planned in the public schools. It is also expected that several local civic organizations will give the subject a place in their programs this week, the Rotary Club starting off today with discussion of fire preventation at its weekly luncheon meeting.

Chief's Comment

Chief McFarland's comment on the annual observance follows:

"As to the reasons for Fire Prevention Week, it seems to me that a yearly loss by fire of 15,000 lives and $570,000,000 in damages is reason enough. Everybody should get behind those who are working tooth and nail to cut down the waste, especially that part which occurs right here in Marion, where the fire destruction last year amounted to $254,000."

"I want to remind all house-owners to clean out their chimneys. After furnaces have been operated all winter, flues and chimneys are sure to be filled with soot. When furnace fires are lit—as they soon will be—trouble is bound to start if the pipes and the

Knight Declares Primary Has Led to Orgy of Bloc Rule in Columbus Address

Scathing Denunciation of Law Heard by Ohio Newspapermen at Meeting; Proposed Amendment Would Retain Adequate Protection, He Asserts

Columbus, O., Oct. 4—A scathing denunciation of the present primary law was voiced by C. L. Knight of Akron, sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment modifying the primary law and chairman of the primary referendum committee in an address before the annual meeting of the Select List of Ohio Newspapers here today.

Knight declared the primary "never had a place in representative government," and charged it has led to an "orgy of bloc rule."

Pointing out the primary has been in general operation for 15 years, Knight asked, "Has it lessened corruption; has it increased the ability or the fidelity of the public official; has it reduced the cost or improved the quality of government?"

"To ask that question is to answer it," he continued.

"Pennsylvania speaks to us in the eloquent language of failure; Illinois shows us how the great corporations find it an instrument ready made for their hand, to place their faithful servants in high places."

Only 15 per cent of the people turn out at the primary and thus eight per cent of the total electroate can name the candidates, Knight said.

"These candidates cannot be known to any considerable part of the people and consequently the voter chooses at random unless he has special guidance," Knight asserted. "Here is where the groups and blocs get in their work."

The primary should be modified to improve the situation, he declared, adding that "the proposed amendment would retain whatever protection the primary is calculated to give."

"This amendment simply seeks to provide a convention system, but it expressly states the delegates to such convention must be elected at primaries," he explained.

ILLINOIS CITY IS THREATENED BY FLOOD WATER

Families Vacating Homes and Fleeing to Hills; Condition Is General

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 4—Beardstown today was threatened with complete inundation from the flood waters of the Illinois River, following two disastrous breaks in the levee. Hundreds of citizens, working day and night during the last week to keep the protecting dikes intact, have abondoned their task and left the town to its fate.

Many families have vacated their homes and fled to the hills nearby. The water is pouring into the town and now stands several feet deep in many of the streets. The postoffice is surrounded by three feet of water.

Some of the more courageous citizens have moved into the second floor of their homes, hoping the water will not rise above that level. The town is isolated. Railroads and highways were all under water. The river has reached a flood stage of 23½ feet and still is rising.

So far, no loss of life has been reported. The people had ample warning and either fled the city or took such precautions as they could. Damage is inestimable.

The flood conditions, resulting from almost continuous rainfall during the last several weeks, is general over parts of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Farmers are the heaviest losers. Millions of dollars worth of crops are under water. Railroads and public utilities also suffered heavy damage.

ROUMANIAN QUEEN MAY PASS THROUGH MARION

Royalty Scheduled To Visit Toledo, Columbus and Other Ohio Cities

Probability that Marion people will have an opportunity this month to see one of the most famous representatives of European royalty is indicated in an announcement of tentative plans for the American tour of Queen Marie of Roumania made in Washington today by officials of the Roumanian legation.

She is scheduled for official visits in Cleveland and Cincinnati and according to the itinerary tentatively outlined today, may also stop in Toledo, Columbus, Dayton and possibly other Ohio cities. In that event, her train would be practically certain to pass through Marion with the possibility of a brief stop being made here.

The Roumanian spokesman from whom the statement came today indicated that his queen is a most democratic person and that during her trip this month she will be very likely to appear before the crowds certain to assemble in the towns and cities along her route.

POMERENE TO TALK IN MARION FRIDAY NIGHT

Marion County Democrats Procure Former U. S. Senator to Open Campaign

The opening gun of the fall political campaign in Marion County will be fired Friday night when Atlee Pomerene of Canton, former United States senator and candidate for the same office this year against Senator Frank B. Willis, will address a mass meeting in the Star Auditorium planned by the Democratic organization of the county.

Announcement that Mr. Pomerene will be here for the meeting was made in a telegram received Saturday night by Hector S. Young, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, from T. E. Dye of Urbana, head of the state committee.

Fletcher To Talk

A short speech will also be given by Congressman Brooks Fletcher, Marion, candidate for re-election, who will introduce Pomerene. Mr. Young will serve as temporary chairman and open the program with a short talk.

According to preliminary plans, the gathering will be staged in old-fashioned political style with a program of music by a local band, preceding the speech-making. Final arrangements for the event will be made at a meeting of the Democratic county and executive committees called for Wednesday night. The committee will meet in the Common Pleas courtroom.

Plan Dinner

Mr. Pomerene is scheduled to arrive in the city late Friday afternoon and will be met by a reception committee of prominent Democrats who are expected to entertain him with a dinner at the Harding Hotel. This committee will probably be appointed at the meeting Wednesday night.

Several other Democrats of state and national prominence are to be brought here for other meetings this month, Mr. Young said today. Candidates for state office, possibly including Governor Donahey, will be in the list of speakers.

In the meantime, the county Republican organization, headed by B. J. Shelton, as chairman of the central and executive committees, is discussing preliminary plans for a series of meetings and announcement of the first event is expected this week.

This game will start at 2:30 o'clock, Marion time.

The city edition of The Star will be held up until the final play, thus giving Marion baseball fans a complete play-by-play account of the game.

YANKEES PASS THROUGH MARION OVER BIG FOUR

Trains Bearing Players and Baseball Officials Enroute to St. Louis

The New York Yankees were in Marion at 8 a. m. today.

The Yanks, enroute from New York to St. Louis on the Big Four, stopped in this city for a few minutes. Few persons knew of the trip to be made through Marion and few spectators were present at the Union Station when the train arrived.

At 8:15, the second section of the crack Big Four train, the Southwestern Limited, steamed into Union Station carrying Judge Landis and other great baseball officials, including the umpires for the St. Louis games.

The second train also carried a host of newspapermen enroute to the scene of the third game of the World Series.

It was at first reported that the trip to St. Louis would be made over the Pennsylvania Lines and therefore would not carry the players and officials through Marion.

MARION MAN FINED $3 FOR IGNORING SIGNAL

Hurrying to get through traffic at Prospect and Church-sts shortly before 6 o'clock Saturday evening, Thomas Nash, of 402 W. Church-st piloted his automobile on the wrong side of the thoroughfare past a machine in front of him, which might not have cost him anything were it not for the fact that Patrolman McColley of the local police force happened to be riding in the other machine.

Nash was taken into custody by McColley on a charge of reckless driving and today was fined $3 when he pleaded guilty before Mayor Earl M. Hazen.

Paint Stores Sell Out of Choice Hue as Fans Prepare Welcome

SCALPERS BOOST PRICES

Alexander Enters Hall of Fame; Strikes Out Ten Batsmen

St. Louis, Oct. 4—St. Louis is going to be painted red tonight—a bright cardinal red.

The fans have gone "cuckoo" over their Red Birds, who come back to their home roost late today for the first time since they won the National League pennant.

For 38 years St. Louis fans dreamed of a day such as this and those who have lived to see their dreams realized will participate in the rousing welcome that is planned when the Cardinals arrive here from New York.

When the heroes step from the train at the Union Station, the signal will be given to touch off the powder in the celebration keg and the roar is expected to be raised from the train sheds.

One Proud Family

It is true the Yanks are coming, but the Germans in this town do not fear them. Neither do their allies, the Irish, Swedes, French, Italians and others. It is just one big proud family that will meet their victorious Cardinals who come marching home tonight.

The fans here heard the reverberation of the Cardinals' heavy artillery echoing from the Yankee Stadium yesterday and their fears of Saturday were dispelled. They may hold this confidence but a short time, but it was present today and they were as proud of their Red Birds as any peacock that majestically strutted in a gilded cage.

Hornsby, Southworth, the old master, Alexander, and, in fact, the whole team are due to be mobbed. The more rational ones fear that some of the team will be injured by well-intended but over-zealous affection.

Sell Out of Paint

That the town is going to be painted red is not a figurative statement. Many of the paint stores have announced they have sold out that particular color. Everybody is saying red and the side

Mr. William Southworth is Belle of the Ball After He Hits High, Wide and Handsome for First Home Run

BY KATHERINE BRUSH

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 4—If Mr. David Belasco or Mr. Morris Gest were to make a play out of yesterday's world series game, the billboards would doubtless read somewhat as follows: "He Who Laughs Last," or "Who's Sorry Now?" starring William Southworth. "Standing room only."

Permit me to introduce William. Strange though it may seem, he is commonly known as Bill. He is five feet, nine inches tall, he weighs 165 pounds, his eyes are blue, his hair is half brown and half missing, and he was born at an early age of perhaps poor but certainly honest parents in Harvard, Nebraska, wherever that is. He began almost immediately to play baseball, and in the course of some 20 or 30 years he played it with the New York Giants. Or didn't play it. There seems to have been much dissention on this point.

New York appears to have been of the opinion that he did not play it, and accordingly in the middle of this summer they presented him in a casual sort of a way to the St. Louis Cardinals. "Take this, it's no use to us," some thing like that.

Now the slogan of the state of Missouri as everyone knows, has ever been, "You gotta show me." Mr. Southworth upon his arrival in the metropolis of Missouri took this slogan very much to heart, and he concluded after mature deliberation that it ought to work both ways. He would not only be shown—but he would do some showing on his own account.

And did he? In the words of the generation, you should ask me.

The aid he gave the Cardinals in winning the National League pennant is ancient history now. It is his feat of today to which your correspondent would respectfully call your attention. He came to bat in the first half of the seventh inning, with the score 2 to 2, and a man on first and a man on third and two men out—and just by way of showing New York what a mess they take it had made when it said to London, Oct. 4—Two thousand workers on the famous Tilbury docks suddenly quit today, leaving scores of ships tied to their piers heavy with cargo.

There was no disorder, and none is anticipated, although the dock police force has been augmented as a precautionary measure.

Most of the strikers returned to their homes immediately.

A commodity which depends entirely upon price for public usage is generally looked upon as a thing of questionable value. Yet a loan of money is such a commodity, notwithstanding the fact that its value is standard. This simply proves that there are other elements than the mere value of money entering into loan transactions.

With The City Loan this consists of gathering in large quantities of money and loaning it out in popular amounts to borrowers who can qualify, with no friction or red tape, but with a fine personal consideration for each borrower. In fact, it consists of a perfectly human element that folks do not expect to find when they borrow money—a priceless ingredient that makes each City Loan transaction a pleasant memory.

2,149 Children Under 14 Killed, 2,759 Badly Hurt on Railroads in Nine Years

Hocking Valley Organ Report Shows 2,555 Youths Between 14 and 21 Also Killed and 4,921 Injured in Same Manner

During the last nine years 2,149 boys and girls under 14 years of age were killed and 2,759 seriously injured, many maimed for life, while walking or playing on railroad tracks and while hopping on and off moving trains, according to the report in the current issue of the Hocking Valley Magazine.

In addition, 2,555 youths between 14 and 21 years of age were killed and 4,921 were injured in the same manner.

The railroads, long in the vanguard of Marion, are constantly patrolling their property, and railroad officials are doing their best to curb the needless accidents resulting from the negligence of the children at play.

Although railroad are supposed to be and are marked "private property," 1,775 boys and girls sustained fatal and serious injuries while walking and playing along the track.

Ignore Warnings

A number of accidents occurred, however, while children were crossing the tracks at public places, because they crawled under the gates or failed to heed the warning of the bells, lights, or flagman. The number given does not include the many killed or injured when automobiles in which they were riding were struck by trains.

One thousand three hundred and thirty-one of the accidents mentioned occurred while children were crossing tracks at places other than public crossings.

"Train hopping" resulted in 6,746 accidents causing fatal and serious injuries.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin", Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Man Promoted

The promotion took place Friday, Oct. 1, W. J. Harrahan, president of the company, announced today. Mr. Parrish has his office in Richmond, Va.

Expect Reports Soon

August and September records of the safety contest of the various departments of the Hocking Valley Railroad are expected here within a few days. The contest, inaugurated a few months ago, has excited much interest among trainmen, section hands, and workers of all departments.

Off Duty

Several railroad officials in the local yards were off duty Saturday, in attendance at the Grotto convention in Columbus.

Kadgar Grotto Band Scores Hit With Radio Audience at Columbus Station WAIU

Concert by Local Musicians Follows Annual Meeting of State Grotto Association; 150 Marion Persons Among 3,000 Delegates; Officers for Year Elected

Kadgar Grotto Band of Marion will present an entire evening's radio program at station WAIU, Columbus, in the near future as a result of its special 30-minute entertainment staged last Saturday night at the same station.

The WAIU management was so thoroughly pleased with the playing of the Marion musicians that request for a return engagement was made immediately after Saturday night's concert. Arrangements for fixing the date and other details are now under way and will be announced soon.

Saturday Night Program

The Saturday night program, given under the leadership of Bertram D. Myers, director of the local band, followed the annual meeting of the State Grotto Association, which was attended by approximately 3,000 people from all parts of Ohio. About 150 Marion people were present and took part in the elaborate program of entertainment planned by Achbar Grotto of Columbus. The Marion party, which included the band and officers and members of Kadgar Grotto and about 30 of their wives, made the trip on a special C. D. & M. car, which left here at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and returned at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Massed Concert

In addition to presenting its radio program from 10:15 to 10:45 Saturday night, Kadgar Grotto band took part in a massed concert in which 250 members of Ohio's 11 Grotto bands participated at 3:30 in the afternoon on the statehouse grounds. The Marion musicians also gave a half hour program in connection with the evening "fun fest," which started at 7 o'clock.

Delegates from the local organization were Lewis F. Bailey, monarch; Ernest C. Mayhew, chief patrol; Frank S. Apley, master of ceremonies, and Byron E. Wilson and G. W. Jakeway, past monarchs.

The State Association elected the following officers for next year: Harry B. Apple, of Columbus, president; Amos Englebeck of Akron, first vice president; W. J. Stephan of Cleveland, second vice president; George Hoffman of Toledo, third vice president; H. H. Hampden of Warren, secretary and treasurer; William C. Schmidt, of Cleveland, sergeant at arms.

Toledo was selected as the 1927 convention city and the first week in October was designated as the time for the meeting.

Huge Parade

The day's program began with a luncheon for officers of the State Association and the 19 Grottos of Ohio, which was followed by a parade in which the 25 uniformed organizations of the state and all visiting lodge members took part. The Columbus police force marched at the head of the procession.

A ritualistic ceremonial in the Masonic Temple on Fourth-st followed the parade and at 4:30 o'clock Grotto patrols from Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Toledo, Portsmouth and Columbus gave exhibition drills on E. Broad-st between High and Third-sts. At 6 o'clock dinner was served at the Masonic Temple by Achbar Grotto of Columbus for 2,500 visiting lodgemen and their wives.

"Fun Fest"

At 7 o'clock came what was listed on the program as the "fun fest," which included the initiation of 86 candidates. A half hour concert by Kadgar Grotto band was a feature of this session.

Supreme council officers attending the meeting were Frederick P. Walther of Cleveland, grand monarch; George E. Hatch of Rochester, N. Y., grand secretary, and Joseph B. Seiber, of Akron, grand standard bearer.

Scalpers are taking advantage of the careless ones. Overnight the prices leaped and, whereas on Saturday $25 a ticket was a top price, the quotations were almost doubled and probably will go beyond that figure before game time tomorrow.

MIDDLE WEST ENTHUSED OVER ST. LOUIS CARDS

Enroute with the Cardinals and Yankees, Oct. 4—One of the greatest welcomes ever tendered a baseball team awaits the Cardinals when they pull into St. Louis tonight.

If reports along the road are to be believed, the entire middle west is all "het up" about Rogers Hornsby and his boys.

The fact that the "Show me" gang evened the count with the Yanks before the largest crowd, 63,600 paid, that ever saw a ball game will make the homecoming all the more strenuous. But whatever they do, the folks at home can't give their prides too much credit.

Behind the clock-like, near-perfection pitching of Alexander, Hornsby and his horde rode to a well deserved triumph. There was something reminiscent of Matty and Brown and Walsh; of the great pitchers of these other mellower days in the work of Grover Cleveland out there in the tanbarked box of the Yankee Stadium yesterday.

No More Like Them

After all, like his first and middle name, Alex belongs to another age. They don't name youngsters Grover Cleveland any more and they don't make pitchers like Matty was or Big Ed Walsh or Alexander anymore. Straight as an old Indian chief he stood and with that snapped, effortless throw, the veteran sent one little white ball after another buzzing and darting just where Ruth and Company thought it wasn't going to be.

They will tell you, indeed, they have told you, that the Yanks murder fast ball pitching, but they didn't murder Alexander's. Not yesterday, which would have been a little better day than any for them to do that sort of thing.

High, fast and inside—where the Yanks profess to love them—was Marse Alexander's favorite special. There it was and Ruth and Meusel and Gehrig saw it, too, and swung with might and main and smack went the ball into Robert O'Farrell's waiting mit. Another pitch and that same tantalizing, sickening thud again. Not once or twice, but time after time throughout that long afternoon while the crowd cheered. Non-partisan, that crowd will be called, but it wasn't. I was rooting for the Cards.

Just for a little while it looked as if, like Dempsey, the knot holders had too many friends. The Yanks made one run and Alexander himself tossed in another in the second and Huggins hustlers were out in front. They didn't stay there long. In the third, the Cardinal-crested out-of-towners came back and tied when Bottomley bumped one of Shocker's hot ones high into the bleachers with two on bases.

From then till the seventh neither side could hit or get a runner on first. That was when Alexander fell into his striking way and whiffed, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Dugan in a row.

Those were three of the ten he sent back to the bench that way, which is within two strikeouts of the world series record for a nine-inning game.

The break came in the seventh, when the break is supposed to come. O'Farrell led off with a double. Thevenow, a pinch hitter, singled him around to third. O'Farrell had a chance to come home, but refused to gamble on Bob Meusel's arm. Alex popped to Antonio Lazzeri and Douthit flied short to Meusel, O'Farrell again refusing to take a chance on Robert's rifle shot arm.

That put it up to Bill Southworth. Here Shocker made his first mistake. He slipped one in there fast.

"Smack," Bill's bat met the ball and away it sailed over the low wall and on into the bleachers. Round they came, those gray-hosed Cardinals, like three horses of doom ringing down the hopes of the Yanks. Over the plate they tramped in cadence one-two-three and the Cardinal bench and the crowd went wild, throwing hats and caps and sweaters.

That was the ball game. That and Alex. And what a ball game it was.

chimney itself are not clean as a whistle. So have them cleaned professionally, or else do the job yourselves. Lower a rag-wrapped brick attached to a rope down the chimney and take down your smoke pipes and clean them out. Here's one cause of fires that certainly can be prevented. A good time to do it is during Fire Prevention Week, and thus help us of the Fire Department to avoid 'stacks of trouble'."

Asked if there was not a brief list of "Don'ts" which would give people a kind of frame-work on which to hang their fire prevention activities, Chief McFarland reached for a pencil, and wrote down the following, saying, "Let them begin on these":

List of Don'ts

"Watch disposal of matches and lighted smoking materials; they are responsible for a heavier annual loss than any other known cause. Always keep matches out of the reach of small children.

"Use proper fuses in electrical circuits; the fuse is the safety valve of the system and should not be tampered with.

"Turn off electric flat irons and other electric devices if you have to leave them for even a moment.

"Gasoline and other volatile liquids make dangerous cleaning fluids; use the safe compounds on the market, including tetrachloride, which is obtainable at any drug store.

"Defective chimneys and flues caused nearly $23,000,000 destruction last year; keep them clean and in repair.

"A gas leak should be hunted with a flashlight, not with an open flame light; to the 'suspected' part of the pipe apply soap suds which, in bubbling, will reveal the leak.

"Walls, ceilings and partitions should be shielded from the over-heating of stoves, furnaces and connecting pipes.

"Hot ashes belong in metal containers, not in wooden boxes and barrels.

"Oil lamps or stoves are safely filled only by day-light.

"Open fires always should be screened when left untended."

DEATH MAY HALT PLANS OF ITALIAN WAR VETERAN

Man Found Semi-Conscious on Oak-St in Serious Condition at Hospital

That death may reach out its grim hand to halt the plans of Charles Rubenstein, who claims to be a veteran of the Italian army which served during the World War, from continuing his journey from Marion to his former home in Cumberland, Md., is the latest news from the stricken man's bedside at the city hospital. A specialist from Columbus, who was at the hospital Saturday in connection with another case was called in to examine Rubenstein and pronounced the patient's condition extremely serious.

Rubenstein was found in a semi-conscious condition on Oak-st more than a week ago and was taken in charge by local authorities. Since being removed to the City Hospital this case has been under the supervision of Charles M Tebon, health department official who has charge of the city's charity work. Rubenstein states that he stopped here while travelling with two companions in an automobile, the condition of his health making it impossible for him to continue the trip.

Rubenstein, who says that he is an Egyptian and has two children living with his parents in Egypt, claims that four wounds in his head and body are a result of his war service.

Despite his weakened condition, Rubenstein insists that he be permitted to make the trip to Cumberland.

The most remarkable phase of last Saturday's game was that the "experts" picked the Yankees to win—and they did.

There's another thing which may be said for the past summer. It worked greatly to take the wear and tear off the sprinkling wagons.

It is stated as a fact that, since the coal strike has been on over there, the people of London do not have to break the air up before breathing it.

The difference between that Kentucky farmer and some people who have had somewhat similar experiences is that when he looked out a window and saw an elephant and three camels in his dooryard they were really there.

Something tells us that putting out a tale of having been kidnaped has lost its appeal as a finale to a petting party.

What? Another pair of them! Why couldn't the authorities over in New Brunswick simplify the situation by discovering those, if any, who weren't in De Russe's lane that night?

The statesmen and politicians who place the welfare of our country above that of Europe have been pointing out that we got nothing out of the Great war and letting it go at that, doubtless figuring that the country appreciates the fact that we have been getting it in the neck ever since.

So far as we are able to glean from both sacred and profane history, that young Hindu is the only personally-conducted "Messiah" of all times.

The Canton News, starting off with the preamble, "you may never live to see it," says: "but some of these days this country will probably have a political race in which both sides will not predict an easy victory." Let's cut out this speculation about the millennium and consider the problems of the present.

As we understand it, the explanation of that handsome woman, who recently startled the patrons of a fashionable Belgrade restaurant, was that she wore the mantle of her convictions, which is about all the women folks are wearing these days.

Declining Miss Rose Moriarity's offer to withdraw from the race in her favor, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth refuses to be a candidate for the post of Ohio woman member of the Republican national committee. Trust Alice every time to be too good a politician to make a misplay such as that would have been with our friend, Nick, at all times a potential presidential candidate.

If Marie doesn't turn out to be a ravishing beauty when she comes over this month to make us a visit, take it from us that we're going to lose a lot of faith in the advertisements of a popular cold cream.

The lord bishop of London says he can't understand how the Volstead measure ever was enacted into law in the United States when so many Americans who go to England complain about it. The lord bishop possibly isn't acquainted with that quaint, little constitutional joker by which congress votes a national referendum which may be ratified by three-fourths of the legislatures of the forty-eight states.

Essentially a Marion Structure.

The McDaniel building on west Center street, the new home of the Marion Overland company formally opened to the public last week, has special appeal to us, and should have to all our citizenship, for it is essentially a Marion structure in every sense of the word. Its architecture is pleasing, its arrangement is excellent for the purpose for which it was designed, it is well constructed from good materials, but all this might be said, possibly, of other Marion buildings. That which gives it special appeal to us is that it was designed by Marion architects, constructed by Marion contractors from materials purchased from Marion dealers in building supplies, fittings and furnishings and put together and made into a harmonious whole by Marion artisans.

The only stipulation made by Mr. McDaniel in letting the contract was that all sub-contracts for labor, materials, fittings and furnishings should go to Marion people when their figures were as good as those of non-residents who might compete. It is a significant fact that, as a result of competitive bidding, ninety-five per cent. of the building as it stands today represents Marion craftsmanship, business and industry, and that the remaining five per cent. represents such materials as can not be profitably handled here at home—materials such as structural steel, by way of illustration.

In a word, the new building stands as a demonstration that we do not have to go outside our own city to build, and build artistically and well, and that Marion can compete advantageously in the building field with all the outside world.

New Ward Divisions.

Shortly after Mr. Hazen (?) came to exercise as head of the local city government he named a committee to study the matter of rearranging the ward boundaries of the city, one of our major municipal divisions having become unreasonably large.

As we understand it, there has never been either a general report or a majority report by this committee. There may be a thousand and one explanations for this delay, but that is aside from the point. The material matter is that neither a general nor a majority report has been made.

However, a minority report has been made by two members of the committee, the two members who are not members of our city legislative body, a report in which two plans for a new division of the city into wards are offered.

The first plan proposes the cutting up of each of the Third and Fourth wards into two wards, making six wards in the city with a rearrangement of the present precinct boundaries of the territory not taken up in the newly-added wards.

The second plan proposed also provides for six wards, but with an entire change of ward boundaries. Under this plan, all the wards would extend from the southern to the northern boundary of the city, three of them being located to the west of Prospect street and three to the east of that thoroughfare. In case of city growth, north or south, the ward lines would merely have to be extended in the direction in which the growth developed. If the growth were east or west a new ward or wards could be added as the circumstances might demand.

There is much to be said for this plan, even though at first thought it may seem slightly radical. As all know, there is an unfortunate division in our city—a division caused by our east-and-west railroad lines. It is thus that we have North Marion, or that part of the city north of the railroad lines, and South Marion to the south of them, and it must be realized by all conversant with the affairs of the city that that portion of our citizenship north of the railroads has long felt that it did not have adequate representation in the city council. At present, it may be stated, that portion of the city north of the railroads has two representatives in council, while the part of the city south of the railroads has two councilmen, three councilmen at large and the president of council—who is not without influence even though he can not vote save in case of a tie—a peculiar circumstance being that all the six, save the regular Fourth ward councilman, are residents of the Third ward. This is the situation now and it has been largely the situation since we have had councilmen at large.

The people of the city residing north of the railroads are desirous that the railroad barriers separating them from the part of the city south of the roads be removed. They have advocated the elimination of grade crossings for years and council has talked of the elimination of such crossings as far back as goes the memory of man. And various local organizations have talked it. And that is about all. The grade crossings still exist. This failure to get the relief they desire the people of North Marion hold in part due to the fact that they have not the representation in council to which they are entitled; that if they had more members of council subject to their votes, there might be more doing in the matter of grade crossing elimination. In a word, they take the view that, so long as the overwhelming division of council resides south of the railroads, there will be an inclination to let this matter of crossing elimination slide along as it is. This may be rank injustice to the members of council living south of the railroads, but it is the feeling of the citizens north of the railroads just the same.

Well, the second plan proposed by the minority committee would answer this complaint from the North Siders, for with the wards extending from the south to the north limits of the city every councilman would have to secure a majority of the votes of the entire ward to win. In other words, the voting influence of the North Sider would extend to the southern limits of the city.

Under the peculiar situation which prevails, the north-to-south ward plan must be conceded to have merit. Unquestionably it has the elements of fairness and justice and would no doubt work to the relief of a section of the city which has not always been fairly treated, which long has suffered from lack of a number of civic improvements which its size and importance deserve.

There can not be the slightest technical objection to Gene Tunney's way of referring to the mazuma for which prize-fighters beat each other up as "financial reward," but for some reason it reminds us of the practice of some of our distinguished men in public in referring to the amounts they receive for verbally beating up Demon Rum as "honorariums," which makes us laugh every time.

So much depends upon the spirit in which a thing is done, and in this connection it may be said that a lot of our people before soundly denouncing the British for sending magazines over here with advertisements of real liquor in them no doubt will want to know whether the thing was merely a matter of the day's work or intentionally unfriendly and vicious.

Poems That Live.

THE QUIET LIFE.

Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air
In his own ground.

Whose herds with milk, whose fields with bread,
Whose flocks supply him with attire,
Whose trees in summer yield him shade,
In winter fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find
Hours, days, and years slide soft away
In health of body, peace of mind,
Quiet by day,

Sound sleep by night, study and ease
Together mix'd, sweet recreation,
And innocence, which most does please
With meditation.

Thus let me live, unseen, unknown,
Thus unlamented let me die,
Steal from the world, and not a stone
Tell where I lie.

THE GLAD HAND OR THE AXE?

Even Soap Affects Person's Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Not long ago I had occasion to speak to the sign painters. It is their business to give publicity to everything man has to sell. In their signs and in newspaper advertisements our attention is called to medicines, foods, cigarets, soaps, etc.

I am much interested in the advertising given to soaps. In one place I read, "Don't envy a good complexion. Have one." Another one says: "Keep that schoolgirl complexion." Another says: "It feels good on the skin." Another goes: "Vim and vigor." If one were to accept as absolutely true what he sees, everybody could be beautiful by using the right kind of soap.

But it must be borne in mind that there are skins and skins. One skin will do well under the application of one soap while another skin will be irritated by its use.

In my judgment, too little attention is given the selection of soap. The individual element must not be disregarded. The chemical constituents of the water to be used with the soap must not be overlooked.

I happen to be afflicted with a tremendous shock of hair. It is naturally very oily, and unless I wash it frequently my hair becomes an oily mess. A little while ago I spent a week or ten days in a section of the country far away from my home. The kind of soap I used and the kind of water they had there left every individual hair like a piece of wire. A few shampoos with that mixture would have made me look like a Circassian.

The point I want to make is that the soap must suit the water. It must be of such chemical composition as to make it soluble in the water. Otherwise the mixture is purely mechanical and the hair and skin will be coated with the mixture without the benefit of the cleansing you are seeking.

Many skins are dry and scaly because of the soap which is used. If you can not get advice from the agent who sells you the soap, you must experiment until you find the soap which suits your particular skin.

The skin contains sweat glands and oil producing glands. In the ideal skin there is exactly the right proportion of water and oil. In consequence the skin is soft and velvety. It feels good to the touch. If there is not enough oil, the skin is dry. If there is too much, it is slimy and greasy. The ideal soap is one which aids the secretions, removing just enough to take away the dirt and yet leaving enough of the oil to make the skin soft and flexible. This leaves the appearance and the smell of sweetness.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, and you cannot be clean without a good soap. Good health depends upon the cleanliness produced by the proper use of good soap.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A certain Frenchman by the name of La Bruyere once remarked that "if riches and honor forsake a man, we discover him to be a fool, but nobody could find it out in his prosperity." The only friendship that is worth anything takes no account of position or place in the world. What a man makes per week or where he lives do not make any difference to a good friend. He is concerned only with the qualities of the man—deep-seated qualities that perhaps few others know about or understand.

Nicholas Murray Butler is right when he calls attention to the lack of men of vision for educational leaders. A number of well known American colleges have been getting new presidents. Others are looking for new presidents and having trouble to find them. It is not sufficient, with youth what it is today and the world changed as it has been changed, to call a man to the presidency of a college because he has been a good preacher or a good teacher. The new college president must face squarely the problem of what the college can do for the young man and young woman. He must also know what it can not do. It is far from enough for the college merely to teach a boy and girl a few things or many things. The college has the big job of furnishing atmosphere—the atmosphere of study, of enthusiasm for learning, of inspiration. And it must furnish the atmosphere in which character will develop and grow.

Big jobs furnish new college presidents.

Now we have a National Get-Out-the-Vote club. That is a good thing, but one of the conclusions arrived at by its president is rather curious. He blames automobiles for the decline in voting. Election is a sort of general holiday for thousands, he says, who take the family on a visit to the country or visit friends and relatives. No one in the car gets home to vote. Blaming American indifference to popular government on the automobile is going a long way to find the offender. The automobile or anything else is not sufficient lure to keep a good citizen from the polls on election day.

Our lesson is to learn that we are a part of this government and to learn to care what happens.

Professor Harvey A. Carr, of the department of psychology, University of Chicago, says, "Mind is not a gift but an achievement."

Do not think you can't do this or you can't do that. Don't accept your small place in the world as inevitable. Remember that mind is an achievement. You are an achievement. You are not put down here to be as you are—but to make of yourself something more. For most of us that is a job which calls for a great deal of persistence.

Who's Who and Why.

REV. JAMES E. FREEMAN.

A political speech in the Harrison-Cleveland presidential campaign made the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Washington, bishop of the Episcopal church, a clergyman instead of a railroad lawyer.

Bishop Freeman, then twenty-seven with a wife and child was head of an accounting department for the New York Central at Yonkers, New York, and was studying law.

Bishop Henry C. Potter was listening the night young Freeman made his speech for Harrison.

"You're missed your calling," was his comment to Freeman, whom he persuaded to join the Episcopal ministry. He trained for the next three years with Bishop Potter as tutor. There was no time for divinity school.

He was made a rector in Yonkers. Then he started his church building career. He built a new church there and increased the congregation from forty-seven to 1,500.

Interests with railroad workmen led him to do most of the work in building Hollywood Inn, Yonkers, the biggest workers' club in America.

"My business training with the railroad was my greatest asset in the ministry," he said recently.

Three years ago he was made bishop of Washington, and the National cathedral has been his chief interest.

As friend of Wilson, Harding and Coolidge he won their support of the project.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Whenever any of my neighbors from Claremore, Oklahoma, goes up to Kansas City for a visit, they come back all worn out from climbing hills. In most of the Oklahoma and Kansas country the ground is so level that the automobile men have to build artificial hills out of concrete so as to show the hill-climbing talents of their cars. And the people that live on the plains, for some reason or other, are mighty particular about getting a good hill-climber to drive. You can't see any hills for miles and miles, but of course you want to be prepared, in case any hills should form in the night some time while you're asleep.

So one of my neighbors took his new car all the way to Kansas City to find hills to climb, and he found 'em. He told me about something that happened on a street car on a hill-side there.

Once in a long time one of these trolley cars gets away at the top of a hill in Kansas City and slides down hill like a wicked soul going to his eternal home, and everybody in the car gets killed or knocked senseless. Well, there was a car that got away right at the top of the hill, and it was pretty crowded. Everybody turned pale and gripped the back of the seats, and nobody said a word. The conductor was holding onto the cashbox with both hands, and some of the folks was saying their prayers. There was a tall woman, kind of a nervous body, standing in the aisle, holding onto a basket like grim death, but she didn't look particularly excited. She was just mad. She glared at the conductor, just as the car dashed past a graveyard at about a hundred miles an hour, and she piped up, kinda indignant like:

"See here, you! Let me off this car right now! I got a dozen fresh eggs in this here basket, an' you don't seem to give a damn how fast you go!" Copyright, 1926.

Large acreages of potatoes in the district as well as carrots, grown on a large scale, and other crops are rotting because of the unusually wet conditions.

When the heavy rains fell during the past week, the huge marsh drainage ditches, most of them filled with the wind-swept muck dirt, were unable to carry off the surplus water with the result that more than 200 acres of the unharvested onions, principally in the cottonwood district, were covered with water for days causing them to rot.

In other sections the soggy condition of the fields has made it impossible for wagons or trucks to transport the crated onions to storage. This standing crop will depreciate at least 10 per cent, growers state.

Should a heavy freeze strike the county before the onions can be removed to storage, growers fear the entire crop would be destroyed. Harvesting of the large crop is now a month late because of the late spring planting due to adverse weather conditions.

NEW PASTOR OCCUPIES PULPIT AT MT. GILEAD

The problem of the church of today was compared to the trials of the children of Israel, and a plea made that the church, united and unified, go forward.

The evening text was taken from St. Luke 12-18, "And he said, This will I do." Rev. Smith urged upon the church the necessity of a purpose in order that anything may be accomplished. Application was made to the church life of today, from the life of the young man described by Jesus in the parable.

Rev. and Mrs. Smith will move to Mt. Gilead Friday from Cuyahoga Falls, where he has been minister for several years. The church there is holding a farewell reception for Rev. and Mrs. Smith Thursday evening.

The local church will hold a similar reception in the church parlors for the retiring minister, Rev. W. H. Miller and Mrs. Miller, who will leave Friday for their new charge at Collinwood. Rev. Miller will have charge of the prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

FIVE-DAY WEEK IS DOMINANT ISSUE AT MEET

American Federation of Labor in Annual Convention at Detroit

Detroit, Oct. 4—The 44-hour, five-day work week was projected into the foreground as a dominant issue as the forty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor convened here today.

A scant week after Henry Ford had startled the industrial world with the announcement that he was inaugurating this revolutionary policy in his motor and allied industries, leaders of organized labor, gathered here at the home of the Ford factories, announced that they would fight to extend the Ford plan to all industry.

The attitude of federation leaders was voiced by President William Green in a statement last night, following a two-hour session of the federation's executive council at which convention activities were outlined.

Declaring that this movement was in line with the established policy of the American Federation of Labor, Green said:

"For years, we have maintained the attitude that working hours must be restricted as a protection to human life in proportion to the increased productivity in industry. With the increasing physical strain on workers as production expands, the five-day week appears inevitable. Employers will find it economy to protect the health and extend the working life span of their employes through this means rather than go on breaking down the human machine and precipitating an increasing labor turn-over."

Some Ready Now

Green pointed out that within the last two decades productivity in some lines of industry has increased from 25 to 100 per cent, while in that same period the standard work day has been reduced from the 10 and 12 hour basis to the eight hour standard, with the 42 and 45 hour week applying in some lines.

Green expressed the opinion that several industries now are in the mood to go on the five-day basis. He named coal-mining, building trades, garment making and automobile industries as in this class. He also cited the printing trades and department stores as other fields susceptible to the change.

Today's session of the convention was given over largely to the formalities of organization with official welcomes by Governor Grosbeck, Senator Cousins and spokesmen for organized labor in Detroit, the convention host. President Green responded.

RICHWOOD FAIR IS SCHEDULED FOR THIS WEEK

Board Has Spared Nothing To Make Exposition Greatest in Its History

Richwood, Oct. 4—All Richwood today waits with great anticipation the opening of the Richwood Tri-county Fair Tuesday, continuing daily through Friday.

The fair board has spared neither money nor effort in striving to make the exposition the greatest in its history. Early this morning, exhibitors and race men were thronging the grounds rushing to completion all preparations for the fair opening.

The speed program is scheduled to get under way Wednesday afternoon. Four races have been billed for each day. Indications are that each event will have a large class of starters. As has been the practice for years, running races are booked as a feature in addition to the harness events.

In arranging for entertainment of the crowds, the board has contracted with three bands to play in the grandstand.

The exhibit halls and barns will be filled to overflowing according to the entry list which today had attained the size of former years. The bulk of the smaller exhibits are usually entered on Tuesday.

The Richwood fair for years has served as a homecoming for communities in all directions. This year will be no exception. Each train and every road over the week end brought back here former residents, relatives and old friends.

INFANTA WILL NOT WED WITHOUT LOVE

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 2—Princess Beatrice, Infanta of Spain, is distinctly a modern girl.

For she will have nothing to do with diplomatically arranged weddings, uniting her fortunes with those of some "eligible" young prince in whom she may have not the tiniest interest. Her heart is to be the sole arbiter it and when she marries.

The Infanta, at 17, is already the center of innumerable rumors as to matrimony. The Prince of Wales, as usual, is—or has been—mentioned as a possibility. But Princess Beatrice maintains a calm silence in regard to whatever the "inside authorities" may whisper.

However, Infanta Beatrice has no intentions of upsetting tradition wholly. It is expected that her choice will be among one of the younger scions of one of Europe's exiled royal families. There, at least, there is some breadth of choice. Some definite announcement is expected within the year, dispite the Princess' silence.

MT. GILEAD'S KICKER IS OUT FOR REST OF YEAR

Makeever Being Treated at Columbus Hospital; Operation May Be Necessary

Mt. Gilead, Oct. 4—The local high school team will be without the services of Jack Makeever, star halfback and drop kicker de luxe, as a result of kidney injuries sustained in the football game with Danville here Friday afternoon. He is in Grant hospital at Columbus. An effort is being made to treat him without an operation. It was stated that it would not be known for several days whether an operation will be necessary.

The loss of Makeever will be seriously felt by the local team. He has been a consistent ground gainer and a good passer. It was his drop kick that made the only score against Stivers High of Dayton and his toe defeated Danville Friday the same way. Coach Matheny is facing a serious task in rebuilding the team for the Marysville game Friday.

Are You Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous wastes is apt to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

ALBANY GIRL PROMINENT IN ITALIAN SOCIETY

him, "Go west, young man, go west," he knocked the highest, widest and handsomest home run you ever saw—the first home run of the series.

A second home run was later scored by Thevenow, of the Cards, but though pretty it was unnecessary, like the paper pantalette on a lamb chop. Mr Southworth, the castoff, and none other, won the baseball game.

It then appeared to your correspondent that a gentleman winning a world series game under such circumstances ought to have something interesting to say on the matter, even if it was only a loud derisive "yah." Accordingly, as soon as the game was over, I made a flying wedge of myself and at great risk of life and limb got through the 63,000 or more departing clients, into a taxi cab, and down to the Pennsylvania station, where the Cardinals were to entrain immediately for St. Louis.

They had a special train of five Pullman sleepers and a baggage car, and the platform adjoining presented quite a scene by the time I got there. The ball players were like excited small boys about to start home from boarding school for vacation. There was a flock of equally excited wives, well-dressed attractive young women, and a delegation of baseball progeny—youngsters who cut their teeth on basemen's gloves and said "hit" before they said "mamma."

Every father in the Cardinal outfit had apparently brought along all the children he had. Wee Willie Sherdel, for instance, was to be seen with two, a son and a daughter, one hanging to each hand. And such is the lack of stature of Wee Willie that it was almost impossible to tell from the rear which was he and which was the son.

Mr. Bill Southworth still was being surrounded and slapped on the back by his team mates, but he consented to disentangle himself and lend ear to my various questions. He is a modest gentleman, is Mr. Southworth. He seemed surprised, and genuinely surprised because I thought he ought to be so proud of himself. He wanted to know why I thought he ought. I said, "but you brought in three runs." Whereupon he grinned and replied that it was "just a good break for him," that there happened to be two men on bases.

The ball players' special is expected to reach St. Louis about 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the town en masse is going to be out to greet them. Automobiles decked with flowers will carry the pennant winners all over their native city, and bands will play and people will scream as they have not for 40 long years had a chance to scream in St. Louis. And I dare say much of the tumult and shouting will be for Mr. Bill Southworth—the Card that the New York pitcher couldn't hold.

"All right. Now I've forgotten it. And if you should happen to get it away somewhere, and if a little bit of a lady sh... should happen to come in and ask for it, maybe you'd tell her where it was?" He winked at her impishly, edging nearer as he detached a banknote from the roll and folded it into a little wad. "She's an awfully nice lady and I shouldn't wonder if she'd have another one like this for anybody who found her suitcase for her."

"But s'posin' she never comes at all at all?" she asked, her fingers closing over the wad.

"Then you'll have to turn it in to the lost-property bureau, wouldn't you? They keep you pretty busy here, though. You might not have time to do that before—say five o'clock? That will be all right for everybody, won't it? And I'm awfully obliged to you. You're certainly a peach! Good luck!"

He waved a hand and was off, leaving the woman smiling after him. She put the suitcase out of sight.

Piggy returned to the city and went to a shop handling ready-made liveries, where he was not known, to invest in a complete chauffeur's outfit, which he said he wanted for a fancy-dress party. Taking his parcels with him he hastened home, packed a couple of bags, and scrawled a scrupulously truthful though possibly somewhat misleading note to his paternal relative, informing that gentleman that his son was off for a few days in the woods and would be back when he arrived.

With the bags and a couple of guns in the high-powered car which more than once had helped him get into trouble, he drove rapidly to the Twenty-third Street Ferry, arriving with five minutes to spare.

Meanwhile, Rowena Smith sat in the lounge at the Waldorf until her watch indicated the zero hour, when without a glance toward the observant man down the corridor, she picked up her brown bag, walked slowly to the door, and called a cab. She caught sight of the man once on the ferry-boat, he was not far behind when she entered the station, and when she bought her ticket he was near enough to hear her say "Washington." From a greater distance he saw her enter the Ladies' Room, and he sat down facing that door to wait until she should reappear.

He wanted for some time. A constant stream of women passed in and out, none of whom interested him. One diminutive figure swathed in fresh widow's weeds, her face hidden behind a long, thick crepe veil, came directly toward him, carrying a large black suit case, but he did not give her a second glance. His eyes were fixed upon the doorway which had swallowed up the brown-clad Rowena Smith. After the Congressional Limited had been called he grew restless. Later still, he interrogated the attendant in the Ladies' Room, who said shure, wid all the wimmen comin' an' goin' all the day, she couldn't be expicted to remimber the color of their clo'es. For reasons of her own she neglected to mention an empty brown bag which had been found in her department and which in her own good time was sent to the lost-property bureau. With a worried look, the little dark man hastened to a telephone.

Considerably before that, however, Piggy had sprung out of his car to meet the woman in mourning whose appearance had not attracted the attention of the watchfully waiting one at the station.

"All right?" he asked a she took the suit case.

"He never looked at me." Her reply came through a gargle of laughter. "I almost stepped on his toes, but he was looking at the door."

"Sure," said Piggy. "Pretty soon he'll begin wondering whether you came out behind some large, fat lady and took your train without his seeing you. You could, you know; you're so little. He's in for a bad time with his boss, and some Washington sleuth may get a job." Laughing, he helped her into the car, started his engine, and asked, "Where do we go now?"

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Jack makes most of meeting

I found myself listening breathlessly for Jack Leslie's answer to Mrs. Baker's query concerning his presence at her side. What I expected I did not know, but strong within me was an intuitive feeling that there was something beneath the surface of the dramatic little incident. I was witnessing—something which it behooved me to know, but which was eluding me.

"No, you do not know me," the cabaret dancer answered in the soothing tone which one would use toward a bewildered child. "I just happened to be passing when you fell, and of course came over to assist you if I could."

The woman was silent for a few seconds, while I had the curious feeling that I was witnessing a scene on a stage, a scene in which the actors knew how to make silence effective. Then she spoke, haltingly but fervently.

"Tank you but' very much. I am sorry to make you so much troubles. I tink I can get up and go home now by mineself and not trouble you any more."

"Oh! no!" Mary protested warmly, and Jack Leslie echoed her protest with an earnest, "Indeed you mustn't think of it. I shall insist upon seeing you to your door. I would advise, however, that you lie still for a minute or two longer."

"You need not wait"

He turned to Mary with a deferential little bow, and a smile that illuminated his whole face. I had to acknowledge with distinct misgiving that the young cabaret dancer was an extremely personable youth, with a fascination of manner which would be attractive to any girl.

"If you are in a hurry," he suggested, "I can escort her to her home, and you need not wait."

If he had studied Mary's moods and tenses for a year, he could not have hit upon a surer method of attracting her attention. Any attempt at using the chance encounter to further his acquaintance with her would have been looked upon by Mary, I knew, as the manifestation of what she would have dubbed "a fresh line," and she promptly would have snubbed him. This apparently casual dismissal, however, not only reassured her, but, I guessed with my long experience of youthful feminine psychology, piqued her a bit as well.

A Moment of Recoil

"But I'm not in a hurry," she said with a touch of dignity that sat prettily upon her. "Besides, she lives in the same house that I do, and I would not think of leaving her until I got her to her room."

He bowed, again, contriving to invest the gesture with an air befitting a salute to a princess.

"That is most considerate," was all that he said, but the caressing admiration of his voice proclaimed that never since the world began had maiden been more gracious.

"I tink I can get up now, und go home," Mrs. Baker said abruptly, and young Leslie instantly turned away from Mary and held out his hands to the elder woman.

"Just grip my hands tightly and I'll pull you up," he said, but Mary, who had risen when the woman recovered consciousness said, "Wait!" with charming imperiousness. Dropping to her knees again, she slipped her arm around the woman's shoulder and raised her to a sitting posture.

As she did so, something within me cried out against her touching the woman. It was as if she had put her hands upon some loathsome, dangerous animal. So strong was the feeling that I almost burst out of my hiding place with an audible protest, and only by a mighty effort of my will did I remain silent and hidden, waiting for the next move of the actors in the little drama.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.—Adv.

Marion Makes Merry-Go-Round of Columbus Harding High Drops Fast Grid Game to Galion

Chuckles

Harding Is Tough
Cow Pasture
Congratulations, Students
As We Predicted

BY CHUCK HARRISON

HARDING gained 246 yards against Galion and Galion in turn had exactly 296 yards gained ground. However, we have not subtracted the 35 or 40 yards, lost by Galion when they were backed nearly off the lot by the Red and Black ugermen.

WE like to see W. Merchant and Lowe play quarter. They give the team plenty of action and don't carry the ball all the time. They are heady chaps and may put the team way up in the league standing before the schedule ends.

* * *

HOUGHTON played a great game at left half for the losers Saturday. He was tired in the latter part of the game when relieved by Tuttle another fast man who gave the winners something to do while he was in the cow pasture. By the way, what do the rules say about lost ball in football? The grass was high enough Saturday.

JUST one more thing to say about the local gridiron. We don't want to be critical in a destructive sense of the word—but we always hope to offer constructive criticism, as it is sometimes called.

Several times in Saturday's game, Harding High players had the ball in open field and fell down. Other times they were seen losing the ball—on fumbles or otherwise,—anyone who crossed the field on the run will say that they were fortunate, indeed, to be able to keep their balance any time on those ravines. It will be no wonder to me if some visiting team in the near future refuses to play on that field on account of the rolling condition, which would be no more than fair. One of Galion's men got a deep gash cut in his cheek below his left eye as a result of striking a cow pasture stake Saturday. That was not so delightful either.

HARDING High band made its initial appearance at the game Saturday and—to our surprise they did not play very much after Galion scored in the second period. Possibly they got tired playing so much. We beg your pardon, if they played we didn't hear them.

* * *

CONGRATULATIONS Harding Hi-"Y" Club men on your score cards, the first to appear at the Marion football field, so we are told. Hope you make them bigger and better each game. No one should ever kick at paying 10 cents for a score card complete, with a little red pencil.

* * *

JUST about as we predicted Ashland and Delaware highs are about the same only Delaware has the newer suites.

The teams played a scoreless tie Friday at Delaware.

"Barnhart's youths from McDowell High showed a running attack that had the strength to carry the ball over; but they never got the chance," said Sports Editor Bill McKee at Ashland Sunday. Bill attended the game and sorta hinted that Mr. Evans, Delaware's right tackle,, looks like another all league choice again this year. We'll talk about that later—right after Evans meets

Uncrowned Ohio Champions Run Down Scoring 20 Times While Vistors Get Only 4

Game Sunday Started Like World's Series and Score Was Tied in Second and Fifth Innings, but Never Again After Athletics Started

BY PAT MURPHY

A GOOD-SIZED crowd of fans left The Marion Star's world series party Sunday afternoon and went to Lincoln Park to see a ball game between the Marion Athletics, semi-pro champions of Ohio, and the Morrey Jewelers, pennant winners in the Capital City League and known as one of the best teams in Columbus. The final score was Marion 20, Columbus 4.

For four and one-half innings the crowd saw what they came to see—a real ball game. However, starting with the fifth time they came to bat, the state champions turned the ball game into an endurance test. They crossed the plate so many times that the writer appealed to them to stop scoring, as the season is drawing to a close and we are running short of paper, and do not want to buy another score book this year.

The Athletics played like the champions that they are, but after the fourth inning the Morreys played like a team from some old folks' home. We think that the only reason the Marion score was held to 20 runs was the fact that our athletes were tired of running bases.

The game started like a baseball game. Main struck out McCready, the first man to face him, and then proceeded to get himself in trouble by hitting Joe Zang, who was sacrificed to second by Friend. Main then hit Wetzel, but Frank Zang went out, Main to Conroy.

Marion scored two runs in its half of the first. Rowan went out, pitcher to first base. Dougherty walked and stole second. Jay "Sailor" Sharrock, hit to the second baseman, who caught him at first. Price hit a hot one through the box which made the pitcher and second baseman dodge for their lives, and Tommy trotted across with the first run. Price then scored when Filichia, in right field, dropped Bacon's fly. Bacon was left on second when Joe Conroy fanned, the only strikeout registered against the Marion team all afternoon.

Visitors Tie Score

Columbus tied the score in the second Melancon, first up, hit to right field. He went around when Regg was safe on a fielder's choice, Main throwing to second too late to catch Melancon. Filichia then got on and Melancon scored when Tommy Dougherty made a punk heave to catch Filichia at first. Main then struck out Nehr, McCready went out, Bacon to Conroy; Joe Zang got on and Regg scored when Joe Conroy fielded Zang's hit and threw to Main, who danced all around first base but failed to catch the bag. Filichia and Zang were left when Friend struck out.

Manager Bacon Tripled

In the third Bacon, first up, hit the first ball pitched to the top of the fence just west of the score board. Luck was not with Frank, and the ball bounced back into the field instead of over the fence. Bacon died on third when Conroy flew out, Donaldson rolled one down the first base line and Brashear hit to the pitcher for an easy out at first.

Marion scored again in the fourth. Main flew out to center, Rowan went out, second to first. Dougherty then hit one through second and stole second. Sharrock scored Tommy with a long hit to right, but was left when Price went out, second to first.

Tied Again in Fifth

Columbus tied the score in their half of the fifth. Friend walked Wetzel hit a two-bagger, sending Friend to third. Frank Zang then went out, Main to Conroy. Melancon struck out. Regg got a hit to right, scoring Friend and Wetzel, but was left when Filichia hit to Donaldson and was thrown out at first.

Marion Starts

This made the Columbus boys feel real good, but in Marion's half they were more than cruel to their visitors. Bacon took one in the ribs, and was sacrificed to second by Conroy. Donaldson then made his second hit of the day and Bacon scored. Brashear hit one to center and Donaldson went to third. Main went out, pitcher to first, and Donaldson scored, Brashear taking second. Rowan walked. Dougherty took his second crack in the ribs and the bases were full. Sharrock then walked, forcing in Rowan. Price was hit and Dougherty strolled in with a score. Bacon then hit to right center, scoring Sharrock and Price. He scored his second run of the inning when Conroy doubled to left. Conroy was advanced to third when Donaldson made his second hit of the inning, but was left there when Donaldson tried to steal second and was caught.

Filichia and Melancon traded positions in the sixth, and Marion proceeded to nick the new pitcher for two runs on hits by Main and Rowan and Friend's wild heave to first to catch Sharrock. Another tally came over in the eighth on hits by Bacon, Donaldson and Main.

In their last time at bat, Marion scored five more, once more batting around. Dougherty walked, Sharrock sacrificed him to second. Price went out on a roller to second. Bacon then made his third hit of the game, scoring Daugherty, and was himself scored when Joe Conroy hit his second double of the day to left center. Donaldson walked. Brashear hit thru second, scoring Conroy. Main hit to right, and Donaldson and Brashear crossed the pan. Main was left when Rowan went out, Felichia to Wetzel.

Glen Price had but two chances in the field all afternoon, but what chances they were. He got put outs on both of them, after a hard run. No one expected him to catch either of the flies, but he got them both. He also made the first hit of the game but not at the ball. In the first inning he chased a mouse half way across the diamond and killed it with his bat.

Marion had nine men left on bases, while the visitors got eight men on who failed to get around. It was not the best game of the season by a long shot, but except for the fifth and eighth innings, was a good game to watch.

The Marion Star relayed the results of the world series game to the park, and Umpire Macken's announcement of St. Louis' victory brought great applause, indicating that it was a St. Louis crowd.

Final announcement of the tournament for next Sunday could not be made. Marion, Ashland and Elyria are three of the teams that will play. There are several other teams which want to play, but the one picked will

Yankees Entertain Cards and 67,000 Fans at Big Expensive Party Sunday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

ENROUTE to St. Louis, Oct. 5—Alex wasn't any bargain for the first two innings. After that, he was a piece of rich lace among the cotton remnants.

Ruth emulated the ostrich in the ninth when he buried his head in some gents' abdomen after a vain stab at Thevenow's liner in the ninth.

Our Mr. Ruth finally regained the poise for which he is so famous but by that time Mr. Thevenow had ambled around the bases for a trick home run.

The boys didn't seem to care much for Happy Henry O'Day's viewpoint on balls and strikes. Henry pacified the young men with his kindly, forgiving smile. That's Henry's way every time.

Our Mr. Ruth strove mightily at all times, but I might be pardoned for saying that the Cards were all against him, particularly Hornsby. Rogers made the best play of the series Sunday in spearing Ruth's smash toward right field in the ninth. There hasn't been a lot of good plays, at that.

And not a lot of bad ones.

It was outcast day at the Stadium and the poor little waifs were happy for once. One of them was Grover Alexander. He fanned 10, allowed only four hits and retired the side in order in seven of the nine innings. Only one ball, in fact, was hit out of the infield during the last six innings.

Oh yes the Yankee boys need to love a punch in the nose, too.

Outcast No. 2 was Billy Southworth. Whereas Alexander was chased out of Chicago, Billy was sent forth into the world from New York itself. Chickens come home to roost. Billy broke McGraw's kind heart when he eased that homer of his into the bleachers.

Slocker waited so long for his world's series chance that he had fear lest when the big moment came Galion wasn't any push over at that.

I know now why they call him "Sad Sam" Jones was the saddest relief pitcher of the year.

Bottomley has been the hitting hero of the series to date. Neither Ruth nor Hornsby has hit their stride, although Rogers stayed himself to a good day yesterday with a double a pass and a sacrifice.

Southworth, of course, was the big gun of the victory with a home run and two singles in five times up. It was enough to cause Mr. McGraw to break right down and weep on the nearest vest.

The Cards were just beginning to wonder how much the losers' share would be, anyhow, when they broke loose in the third inning.

Those singles by Douthit, Southworth and Bottomley convinced the Cardinals that they were a ball club and this was a world's series.

Only 67,000 persons present. One felt almost isolated, as it were.

SCORELESS GAME AT DELAWARE

Ashland and Downstaters Save Scores in League Tilt

Running roughshod over Delaware in the center of the field, gaining over three and a half times as much yardage as Delaware and keeping the ball in home territory almost all during the game, McDowell High was nevertheless held to a scoreless tie at Delaware Friday afternoon.

Intercepted and grounded passes near the goal line, unsuccessful drop kicks and a low placement goal tell just why Ashland failed to cross the line for a winning touchdown. A drop kick in the first quarter failed, a pass was grounded over the goal line in the second quarter, two passes were intercepted in Delaware territory and a placement kick failed in the last quarter.

McDowell High kept driving toward the Delaware goal, sheing yards off tackle and swinging around the ends for consistent gains. Approaching the goal line, these successful tactics were abandoned and passes and kicks were resorted to, none of which scored.

FANS PAY $201,828 TO MAKE RECORD ATTENDANCE

New York, Oct. 4—A world's record was established yesterday when 63,600 fans paid $201,828 to see the second game of the world's series.

The former record, make at Yankee Stadium in the fifth game of the 1923 series, was an attendance of 62,817 and receipts of $201,519.

Counting deadheads, it was estimated 67,000 saw the game yesterday. The official figures on both games are:

Attendance paid: 125,258; receipts, $800,704; advisory council's share, $60,105; players' share, $204,393; clubs' share, $136,238.

THEVENOW IS LEADING

New York, Oct. 4—Tommy Thevenow, St. Louis shortstop, is the batting leader of the world's series to date with a mark of .500. Jim Bottomley is second with .444, while the leading Yankee hitters are Combs and Dugan, tied at .3333.

CALLAHAN MEETS EX-CHAMP

Chicago, Oct. 4—Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion of the world, and Shuffle Callahan, the slugging truck driver from Chicago Heights, will clash in the main event at Dexter Park Pavilion tonight. The fight is scheduled for 4 rounds to a referee's decision, weight 155 pounds.

CHICAGO SERIES EVEN

Chicago, Oct. 4—The Chicago series was all even today as the White Sox and Cubs prepared for the fifth battle of the championship flight. Each team has won two games. The strong right arm of Ted Blankenship put the American League entry back on even terms with the Nationals in yesterday's pastime. The score was 4 to 0. Ted held the Bruins to six hits and won as he pleased.

NO SCOUTING POPULAR

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 4—Princeton under graduates hailed with favor the "no scouting" agreement signed by W. W. Roper, Princeton football coach, and A. A. D. Jones, Yale mentor. The coaches agreed not to seek any information concerning the defense or offense of the other team, putting to an end the scouting of football games, so far as the two universities coaching staffs are concerned.

MANSFIELD WINS FROM BUCYRUS

Captain McMullen's Place-Kick Wins Game for Coach Murphy

Exactly 2,401 screaming, groaning individuals arose, as if by count, and exactly 2,001 of that number settled down with a groaning, while the remaining 400, all from Mansfield, cast dignity and caution to the wind as a little oval went hurtling through the air and soared on its way to the ground directly between the goal posts and over the cross bar Saturday at Bucyrus.

The ball was given its energy from the toe of Captain McMullen's good right foot and the fact that it settled between the goal posts gave Mansfield three points, and a 10-7 victory, over the Bucyrus aggregation in the first N. C. O. League game for both teams.

Bucyrus had scored early in the second quarter but the Mansfield team had awakened from their first quarter lethargy and before the first half was ended they had tied the score. The Mansfield team carried the ball to the 30 yard line shortly after the second half had started. Being temporarily halted there, Captain McMullen dropped back and booted the ball from a placement kick squarely between the standards.

Big Kersh Scores Lone Marker in Second Period; Stars With Captain Born

Locals Not Permitted To Enter 20-Yard Zone After Running Wildly Over All Parts of Field Without Organized Effort; Vistors Stubborn

BY CHARLES HARRISON
(Sports Editor)

CRACKING Harding's stone wall defense at the most opportune time, Big Dewitt Kersh, left half (No. 81), for Galion, dragged half the Red and Black defenders 10 yards across in the second quarter scoring the winning touchdown for the visitors Saturday in Marion's first home and North Central Ohio Scholastic League game. It was the four to down and little did the losers suspect that Galion would be able to score right after they had been thrown back six yards on the three preceding plays.

Galion, with a barrel of determination, started its march to Harding's goal from the 40 yard line where Marion had punted out-of-bounds. The Kersh twins, it might be said, won the game for Galion. Big Kersh, as he was distinguished by his rooters, played a stellar role throughout the game. He used unusual judgment for a high school man, using straight-arms, changing pace, and twisting and rolling loose from his opponents time and time again.

Captain Born did most of the work for the losers and shared honors with Zinn and Captain Cutshawl.

Harding punted out of bounds on its own 40 yard line and Big Kersh's pass to Quarterback Young gave Galion their first and ten on Harding's 30-yard line.

Captain Cutshawl hit the line for five and after failing to complete a pass Big Kersh went through right tackle for four more.

Big Kersh was called again by Quarterback Young and this time he gave Galion their first and ten on Harding's 10-yard line by plunging through the line for 12 yards. It was a thrilling play and Harding did well to stop the giant Big Kersh was thrown back for

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

Because it was the morning ... to wash my face and ... and she had it in for me ... put the wagon in ... grandfather's door. When ... the cows I told the bunch ... having it in for me, and ... to come in the kitchen ... washed, only Hopper. He ... is too offal.

But even a fella's mother pulls some rough stuff when she is washing him, and she made me holler twice before she got done.

Yodees was at Sunday school and she had on some new fall clothes and she says her mother says she is getting growed up to where she can soon have her skirts made shorter. I did not say anything. The Lost Bag of Tripe said they were all right now as far as he could see and when he saw the look I gave him he got behind Nibs. I did not get a chance to spend my half on her. The bunch stuck around too close. Maybe I'll keep it till Christmas.

The Lost Bag of Tripe got funny today and had to stay in at recess. The teacher said to him: "Hennery can you bound Brazil?" and he said: "Yes'm. I think so. It's a rubber country, isn't it?" and we all laughed, and the teacher kinda grinned, and then she said, "Yes. You may remain in at recess and write 'isn't' on the board one hundred times." And then he didn't look so pleased with himself.

I played checkers with my grandfather after supper and let him beat me because he gave me the half a dollar. Jubilee was glad when I went to bed and pulled him up.

For some unknown reason, the Star today failed to receive the story of Uncle Wiggily and His Friends, a great favorite with the younger readers. Watch for him.

SOMEONE told us wrong. No that's an alibi. We don't alibi. But now can say that we got out of bed on the wrong side Saturday morning.

We missed our guess on the results of the Galion-Harding game—and also on the New York victory over St. Louis.

WE thought when Jack Dempsey lost that was about the end of our many mistakes but now it looks worse than ever. Guess we'll have to issue bonds.

WE met L. W. Remley who is assisting Coach Paul Curry at Shelby High this year, at the Galion-Marion game Saturday. He said everything was going good at Shelby, the big Red and White school. He was scouting the game here and was somewhat disappointed in Harding's team. "I just know those boys can play better ball than that if they get organized," Coach Remley said.

ASHLAND has little hopes of winning the league pennant this year, according to reports. Evidently they have not read that rule about incompleting successive passes. Possibly Coach Harry J. Barnhart misinterpreted the rule or does not care about a penalty.

"Coach Barnhart undoubtedly will devote considerable time to bringing his pass attack closer to perfection," says Sports Editor Bill McKee in the Ashland Times Gazette.

"He has to if it is to be a factor in scoring against N. C. O. teams. This was the only weakness shown by the Orange and Black gridmen in their second league game. Selection of plays was not up to par in the game against Delaware and the quarterbacks will probably come in for some intensified coaching."

LOWER RATES FAIL TO STIMULATE ACTIVITIES

Bulk of Speculative Stocks Settle Down to Lower Levels

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong, industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds inactive, foreign bonds irregular; call money 3 1-2 per cent; grain firm; copper fairly steady; oil irregular; cotton steady, rubber irregular, sugar firm; pig-iron firm; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Oct. 4—Lower call money rates with an increase in the supply of speculative funds available, failed to stimulate bullish activities in the stock market today and throughout the most of the session, the bulk of speculative stocks settled down to lower price levels.

A break of 10 points in the common stock of the Atlantic Coast Line, generally attributed to the lower cotton values, encouraged the bearish traders to direct their efforts against other important southern enterprises. Southern Railway was pushed down to 122 for a loss of nearly three points from the high of the day, as the result of a concentration of professional selling, following which other railroad shares received a visit from the advocates of lower prices.

With the completion of the October "settlements" and the $44,000,000 improvement in the reserve situation of the New York Clearing House Banks, Wall-st looked for an easing up of the call loan market.

The initial renewal rate was 3½ per cent, but funds flowed in freely and the 3 per cent rate was posted shortly after the noon hour. Business and industrial reports were negligible except as they forecasted a continuation of favorable financial conditions over the year end.

LONG FIGHT TO CANCEL LEASES IN FINAL STAGE

Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve Case Set for Oral Argument

Washington, Oct 4- The government's long fight to cancel naval oil reserve leases which it is contended were fraudulently made by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, will enter its final phase in the United States Supreme Court late today or Tuesday.

The Elk Hills, Cal., case was set for oral argument and a battery of lawyers awaited the word of Chief Justice Taft to begin.

As the court assembled for the first session since the summer recess three cases preceded the oil case on the calendar.

Decision in the Elk Hills case is expected to have an important bearing on the famous Teapot Dome lease to the Harry F. Sinclair Mammoth Oil Co. The government lost in a sweeping victory in the Federal Circuit court. Attorneys for the Pan American Oil company, controlled by Edward L. Doheny, were to take the burden of appeal in the oral argument. Frank J. Hogan and Frederic R. Kellogg headed Doheny's brilliant array of counsel, while Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts specially represent the government.

The highest court will be called upon to decide whether the $100,000 in cash which Edward L. Doheny gave to Fall was a bribe or a loan to an old time friend. Doheny is not only fighting to have the leases upheld, but is seeking to force the government to pay his company about $12,000,000 spent in building naval oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and exploring the California reserve, if the leases are cancelled.

Several million dollars amassed from the sale of oil from the Elk Hills reserve is held in trust to await the final decision of the court.

A safe resolve before going to the picnic. Keep a sharp eye out against the opportunities to do something ridiculous.

PURCHASES TWO "SACRED CATTLE"

Kenton, Oct. 4—Two "sacred cattle" of the "Brahma" species, have been purchased by Leon Robinson, Hardin county farmer, and are to be brought into Ohio during October.

The cattle were formerly worshipped by certain tribes of India. The purchase of the bull was through the Union Stock Yards of Kansas City, Mo., while the heifer was imported from Mexico.

Robinson describes the animals as being the color of a grey squirrel, having a large muscular growth on the back, just in front of the shoulders, and much loose, flabby skin on the dewlap. They are commonly known as Zebus.

"I purchased the animals merely as novelties," Robinson said, "and will try to raise some of them."

The road is designed to be a connecting link between the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley and will constitute approximately 85 per cent of the total tonnage.

While figures are not available at this time it is indicated that the net profit of this year's event will be small. The board will meet in the office of Roland L. Fetter, fair secretary, on Mill st.
